..... Our Story .....

Heise Hot Springs is named after its founder: a German immigrant named Richard Clamor Heise, who came to the area in 1889. He found that the natural hot spring water was beneficial for healing wounds and relieving rheumatism. He homesteaded the property and started to make improvements, some of which still stand today. By 1898 he had built the swimming pools, a hotel, store, and post office. This gave the public a destination for health and recreation.

After his death in 1921, his daughter, Bertha Gavin managed Heise Hot Springs. People came from distant places, using a ferry to cross the river. In May of 1938, Mrs. Gavin had a much-needed bridge built. Sadly, Bertha passed away shortly before its completion.

In 1941, Bob and Elsie Quinn purchased the property from the Heise family. By then it was a run-down place in dire need of care. The Quinns went right to work and remodeled the hot pools and built a large swimming pool. They also added an RV park and restored the old hotel building. In 1960 Bob passed away, leaving Elsie with the business. Her son Mike and his wife, Elaine helped with all aspects of the resort. Eventually Mike purchased it from his mother, who continued to work and support Heise into the last years of her life. She died of natural causes at the age of 98.

Mike saw the opportunity for the business to expand. He updated the pool areas, added sundecks and put in a 350-foot enclosed waterslide. A new building was constructed for the snack bar and for a place to check in customers for the summer pool. Throughout the years, more RV spots were added as well as picnic areas, pavilions, and cabins. It was 1970 when Mike came up with the idea of building a pizza parlor and a 9-hole golf course.

Many friends and family helped make the Pizza Parlor what it is today. The logs originally came from Hamilton, Montana. Stacking of the logs only took two days. The original equipment came from another restaurant, and has been updated throughout the years, but the recipes and food have remained consistently homemade and delicious.

In 2001, Mike's wife Elaine died of cancer. He would later marry his second wife, Robin, who herself was a widow. Robin dedicated 13 years to managing the Pizza Parlor before both she and Mike were killed in a tragic plane crash near Jackpot, Nevada in November of 2019.

For several decades, the Quinn family worked hard to create a vast network of friends and loyal Heise "fans". With so many activities to offer, and located just far enough from the beaten path, Heise Hot Springs remains an ideal place for family reunions, company parties, or just for hanging out. Heise holds a special place in our hearts, for many different reasons. We love its history and meaning, and look forward to keeping its traditions alive for future generations.
